

LMOST every housewife owns some very fine laces, linens, draperies, etc., which she uses only on "state" occasions.

Wash them with Ivory Soap and you need not hesitate to use them as often as you wish. Ivory is so pure and mild that it will injure nothing that water itself will not harm. Its quality is in keeping with the choicest fabrics. That is why it washes them so safely and so beautifully.

distinct and besetting peculiarity. They think today and forget tomorrow. In this respect they probably are unlike any other nation of people on the face of the globe. To demonstrate the force glance at the pages of any of the great papers of the country. A sensation will be sprung today and it be blazoned in big type over the first pages of the press. Unless its importance is of tremendous magnitude tomorrow will find it relegated to an obscure corner of the paper. It is fo gotten. About the only exception to this rule is the newspaper story that is reeking and public eye and is played up to the limit.

Preparedness is just now the great and overshadowing ques-I am a candidate for the Republican tion before the American people. Everybody is talking about it, either for or against. A few months ago monster peace parades wese held in the large cities, and war and preparedness against war were denounced on every hand. Today you can fird scarcely a man who can tell you even the month in which one of those parades was held. They have been forgotten. A few weeks ago New York City held a monster preparedness parade, in which 145,000 people participated. Chicago immediately followed suit with one of the greatest parades in the history of this country, all in the interest of preparedness. Other cities, large and small, all over the country caught the fever and paraded for preparedness. Governors proclaimed June 3 as Preparedness Day, and everybody marched and shouted for preparedness. But these, too, will be forgotten, for it is the way of the American people to do today and forget to-

And as it is in national affairs, so it is in the smaller confines of the local community. A rainy season comes along, country roads and unpaved town streets become muddy and impassable, and every body raises his voice in a loud and vociferous wail for better roads and streets. But time soothes him into forgetfulness. The rains cease, the sun dries up the mud and the roads assume more normal conditions. Traffic is less impeded and the citizen promptly turns his attention to other and more pressing matters of personal consideration. The roads are forgotten until the next death. It is easy to forget.

Some one arises in a public meeting and proposes a practical scheme for development of the commercial interests of the community. He is sincere and eager M. F. Powers. to do something for the benefit of his home town. He believes in progressiveness. His scheme Sikesoffice, Baxter Springs, Kas., looks good and sounds better to or call phone 195.
